Moving into the New Studio

The exciting time has finally come to start the move into the new studio. This Sunday we will move the flooring in storage into the green room and begin the install. The next big moving day will be the 18th, moving extra furniture from temporary to our new home. The 22nd is when the last of the flooring and mirrors will be moved. This was done with very little help over the summer, and I want to ask for help from anyone that can maybe volunteer a truck or trailer on any of these days to make this process quick. We are making a signup sheet in the office for any volunteers. Thank you all very much in advance for everything! This is such an exciting time!!
